Honored Students

*The following students were chosen by their departments as exemplary student representatives.
The speakers and prayers have been selected from among these students.*

Alyssa May Baer, from Holladay, Utah, is graduating summa cum laude in public health with an emphasis in health promotion and a minor in digital humanities and technology. She is the daughter of Steven and Heidi Baer. Alyssa is a member of the BYU Honors Program and defended an undergraduate honors thesis which explored the orphan crisis in Zambia and led to the design of an interdisciplinary social impact and public health program evaluation for Mothers Without Borders. She has been a teaching assistant and research assistant in the Public Health Department and also completed the Ballard Scholar for Social Impact program. She was recognized as the Public Health: Health Promotion Student of the Year in 2020. Alyssa competed in the national Society for Public Health Education student case competition, where she and her teammates received second place. She loves to combine her passion for community development and women's health issues with her love for graphic design to create effective educational materials. Her long-term goals are rooted in a desire to facilitate better communication and collaboration between the nonprofit, business, and government sectors to inspire innovative, research-based progress on social issues. After graduation, she will continue as the impact evaluation specialist for Mothers Without Borders and will pursue a graduate degree in public health. She hopes to focus her graduate education on maternal and child health issues and evaluation methods.

Amanda Aamodt Barrett, from Pleasant Grove, Utah, is graduating summa cum laude in biological science education. She is the daughter of Cherylnn Johnson Aamodt and the wife of Jonathan Barrett. Amanda served in the Illinois Chicago Mission. She received the Abrelia C. Hinckley scholarship for academics and service. She was a teaching assistant in evolutionary biology and in the molecular biology lab. She was also a research assistant in biological science education. Amanda has always enjoyed working with youth, which is why she chose to become a teacher. She is particularly passionate about helping young women become interested in STEM careers. In her free time, Amanda enjoys baking, biking, and visiting national parks with her husband. After graduation, she will work as a teacher in Utah County and will start a family.

Christina Michelle Blackmon, from Everett, Washington, is graduating summa cum laude in exercise science. She is the daughter of Albert and Ramona Blackmon. Christina received full-tuition academic scholarships as well as other outside funding to pursue her education. She is constantly amazed by how the human body works, and anatomy and physiology were her favorite college classes. Christina competes as a heptathlete on the BYU track team. She thanks God every day for the opportunity she has had to live out her dream as she attends BYU and progresses as an athlete. She is a firm believer that the keys to success in life are faith, charity, and hard work. She lives by the adage "If you can dream it, you can do it." After graduation, she will begin the BYU master's program in exercise sciences.

Kristina Lyn Cass, from Batavia, Ohio, is graduating cum laude in environmental science with a minor in geospatial science and technology. She is the daughter of Roger and Melissa Cass. Kristina came to BYU as a National Merit Scholar and received other scholarships, including the Abrelia C. Hinckley scholarship. She worked in an environmental research lab and was included as a coauthor on a journal article published in Restoration Ecology. She was an officer of the Environmental Science Club for three years. Kristina's hobbies include doing word puzzles and making music and art. After graduation, she plans to move back east and become an environmental scientist, researching plant invasions and how geographic information systems can be used to monitor and mitigate them.

Alexis Marie Gardner, from Henderson, Nevada, is graduating summa cum laude in nutritional science. She is the daughter of Kelly and Sara Gardner. Alexis worked as a teaching assistant in the anatomy lab. She was also involved in mentored research and received three CURA grants and two Undergraduate Research Awards from BYU. She presented her research in nutrition at the 2020 ObesityWeek international conference. She also participated in cancer research and was a fellow of the BYU Simmons Center for Cancer Research. Another opportunity she enjoyed was a Public Health Department study abroad program in Uganda to learn about the health care system there. After graduation, she plans to pursue an advanced degree in the health care sector.

Emma Stucki, from Yakima, Washington, is graduating summa cum laude in microbiology with a minor in Italian. She is the daughter of Dan and Julianna Stucki. Learning a second language was an important goal for Emma, and she participated in the study abroad program in Siena, Italy. She also interned at a nonprofit for refugees in Rome. She learned to love Italy and its culture and spent three years as the Italian Club president. Emma was also a member of the Yoga Club and taught a weekly yoga class for the club after becoming a certified yoga instructor. Her other interests include hiking, skiing, cooking, and hanging out with her chocolate lab, Freddie. After graduation, she will take some time off before applying to medical school. She would eventually like to deliver high-quality medical care to rural communities in Washington.

Benton Christopher Tullis, from Spokane, Washington, is graduating summa cum laude in physiology and developmental biology. He is the son of Christopher and Stacey Tullis and the husband of Madeleine McWhorter Tullis. Benton served in the Germany Berlin Mission. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi. He has been involved in research since his freshman year and received a CURA grant and a Physiology and Developmental Biology Department scholarship for his work in the lung and placenta research lab. He has had the opportunity to publish his research multiple times. One of his favorite and most rewarding experiences was being a teaching assistant in organic chemistry, biochemistry, and reproductive physiology. He was awarded the Garth L. Lee Teaching Scholarship for receiving top reviews from students and professors. In his free time, he loves going on trail runs with his wife, playing basketball with his two younger brothers, and reading a good book. After graduation, he will attend medical school.

Music Performers

Joseph Landon Beales, from Roosevelt, Utah, is graduating in nutritional science. He is the son of Jason and Amy Beales. Joseph served in the Chile Santiago North Mission. He was a teaching assistant in organic chemistry and genetics and was also a research assistant. He received several academic awards, including the National Merit Scholarship, the College of Life Sciences Research Award, and other scholarships from the Nutrition, Dietetics, and Food Science Department. As the second of 11 children, he enjoys spending time with family and friends as well as participating in sports such as soccer, tennis, and running. After graduation, he plans to apply to medical school.

Chad Angel Mourino, from the Woodlands, Texas, is majoring in nutritional science. He is the son of Brian Mourino and Leila Jensen and the husband of Olivia Mellor. Chad served in the Australia Melbourne Mission and taught at the Provo Missionary Training Center. He is a member of the BYU Concert Choir. Chad is also involved in mentored research on diabetes. He and Olivia were married in February of this year, and they love to cook and eat good food together. He also plays tennis and relaxes on the weekends. He recently started learning Spanish and hopes to attend medical school and use his future career to help people of all cultures.
