Ouafae Benlhabib

Ouafae Benlhabib is a professor in the Department of Plant Production, Protection, and Biotechnology at the Hassan II Institute of Agronomy and Veterinary Medicine in Rabat, Morocco. For the past 33 years, Professor Benlhabib has taught genetics, cytogenetics, and plant breeding. Her research centers on plant genetics and agrobiodiversity conservation. She has worked on many multidisciplinary projects funded by the U.S. Agency of International Development, the United Nations, and the European Union.

In addition to her teaching and research efforts, Professor Benlhabib consults for international organizations, working with the United Nations Development Programme, the European Union, and the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations on water sustainability and agrobiodiversity to increase food security and decrease poverty.

Professor Benlhabib has made several meaningful contributions to the BYU College of Life Sciences by fostering collaboration between the Hassan II Institute of Agronomy and Veterinary Medicine and Brigham Young University. Over the past seven years, she has hosted dozens of BYU students and faculty in Morocco to study crop diversification and the genotypic adaptation of quinoa in the Middle Atlas Mountains of Morocco to improve the cropping system and the local population's nutrition, well-being, and income.

While at BYU, his research included various projects investigating the role of posttranslational histone modifications in gene regulation. He was a research intern in the Tessier Lab at Harvard Medical School, where his research optimizing organ preservation parameters in a transplantation setting inspired him to pivot from basic research into the applied biomedical sciences. Aaron enjoys playing the cello, strength training, doing outdoorsy granola stuff, and watching cat videos. After graduation, Aaron will start a PhD program in molecular neuroscience with the intent of continuing on to a career in biomedical research investigating the epigenetic mechanisms underlying the development of neurological pathologies such as addiction, trauma, and neurodegeneration.

Parker Royal Carlquist, from Eden, Idaho, is graduating in public health with an emphasis in health promotion and a minor in international strategy and diplomacy. He is the son of J. Douglas and Melanie B. Carlquist. Parker served in the Chile Concepción Mission. He received multiple scholarships, including the Carol A. Ellsworth Phi Kappa Phi Scholarship. He was a CDC John R. Lewis Undergraduate Public Health Scholar. He also received a certificate of appreciation from the U.S. Department of State during his internship in the Bureau of International Organization Affairs. He was on the BYU Model United Nations team and received an award as outstanding delegate in committee at the 2023 National Model United Nations Conference. He published research, received a CURA grant for his work on the BYU Campus Conversations project, and presented at two conferences. Parker enjoys playing the piano and violin and exploring the outdoors, particularly by kayaking and paddleboarding. He loves reading a good book and spending time with friends and family, and he hopes to visit many parts of the world. After graduation, Parker plans to enter the Peace Corps to work on a health-related project and then attend graduate school as he pursues a career in health diplomacy.

Meghan Kayte Crowther, from Tucson, Arizona, graduated summa cum laude as well as with university honors in nutritional science with a minor in sociology. She is the daughter of Brent Clifton Crowther and Kayte Johnson Crowther and the wife of Thomas Roberts Fuller. Meghan served in the Canada Toronto Mission. She received a four-year academic scholarship as well as the Alisa's Angels Foundation Scholarship and Rotary Club of Tucson Scholarship. While at BYU, she received a CURA grant to work in partnership with Community Health Connect, seeking to understand Latinx perspectives on mental health in Utah County. She also volunteered at the Volunteer Care Clinic in Provo as well as at the South Franklin Community Center, where she currently facilitates the center's community integration class, a course aimed at informing immigrants about available resources in Utah County. Meghan was a teaching assistant in a dissection and anatomy lab, copresident of the BYU chapter of the American Medical Women's Association, and a member of Phi Kappa Phi honor society. Her research included studying pathways that regulate embryonic limb development. She also conducted summer research on pediatric medical education at the University of Utah and presented her work at the Intermountain Pediatric Health Equity Summit and at the national Pediatric Academic Societies meeting in 2023. The following summer she researched kidney metabolic pathways at Massachusetts General Hospital through the Harvard summer research program in kidney medicine. In her free time she enjoys long-distance running, tutoring for the MCAT, reading biographies, and eating her husband's homemade spaghetti. After graduation, Meghan hopes to combine her interests in metabolism, health, education, and advocacy to become a physician and educator by pursuing either an MD/MPH or MD/MHA degree.

David Lawrence Kobe, from Morgan, Utah, is graduating in biology. He is the son of Trevor Kobe and Erin Buell Kobe. David received a full-tuition BYU scholarship. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Phi Kappa Phi, and Golden Key International Honour Society. While at BYU, David was a research assistant studying countergradient variation in growth of Chilean diadromous fishes. He completed biology field research trips to Ghana to study native catfishes, tilapia, and the African arowana. While in Ghana, he volunteered with the nonprofit organization Nurturing Nations at its children's school in Kofi Kwei, Ghana, at a village medical clinic in the Assin Adadientem region near Cape Coast, Ghana, and at a vision clinic in Accra, Ghana. He served as a program director with the BYU Y-Serve refugee program, organizing local service projects to support refugees. He especially enjoyed teaching as a TA in physics at BYU and as a supplemental instructor in chemistry at Weber State University. Last summer he shadowed physicians in Thessaloniki, Greece. He worked as a certified nursing assistant at South Davis Community Hospital. His interests include hiking, camping, motorcycle riding, and sailing a Hobie 16 catamaran. He is a second-degree black belt in Karate Shin-Toshi and enjoyed participating in BYU's jiu-jitsu classes. He plays piano, saxophone, and cello and likes to sing. He was a member of the BYU Men's Chorus and of the BYU Ballroom Dance Company. After graduation, David will serve in the México México City North Mission.

She received the Abrelia Clarissa Hinckley Scholarship and is also a member of Phi Kappa Phi honor society. While at BYU, she was a teaching assistant for the Soil Science Lab. As a research technician during the summers, she drove the work trucks for conservation research all over Utah and Idaho. She later presented her research at the Soil Science Society of America annual meeting. She loves soils and grew up making mud pies and being connected to nature with activities such as trail running, paddleboarding, and cross-country skiing. Her BYU study abroad experience in Iceland gave her the opportunity to stand under frigid waterfalls as well as witness an active volcano. She took French, German, and Japanese classes at BYU. For a school project, she expressed her musical talent by writing an additional verse to the Joni Mitchell song "Big Yellow Taxi," which she titled "Don't Pave Utah Lake." After graduation, Alexandra plans to return to Colorado to gain experience promoting community sustainability initiatives and then attend graduate school.

Anne Catherine Shull, from Cincinnati, Ohio, is graduating in exercise science. She is the daughter of Andy and Leslie Shull and the wife of Drew Mulligan. Anne served in the California Oakland/San Francisco Mission. She received the Charles James Hart and Clarice Theta Hansen Hart Scholarship. She is a member of Phi Kappa Phi honor society and has been on the dean's list every semester. One of the big highlights of her time at BYU has been participating in the Adaptive Show Choir and other service activities through Y-Serve. She was also a volunteer intern at ScenicView Academy in Provo, Utah. She loves hiking, martial arts, and lying in her hammock with a good book. After graduation, Anne will start the occupational therapy doctorate program at Kettering College in Dayton, Ohio.
